

LOOKING AFTER JOINERY

As well as guaranteeing essential noise- and heat-related performance, when made of a valuable material like wood, joinery becomes an elegant decorative element.

That is why we have developed very resistant coatings that enhance the natural beauty of wood.

To look after joinery, it is necessary to check it carefully at least once a year, preferably before the summer, to assess the state of preservation of the coating film and prevent premature deterioration by maintaining the joinery always in perfect condition.

Do not wait until the surface film is completely ruined before starting any treatment; prevention is better!
